

INTERNATIONAL DAY

Last month RIS celebrated one of the most colourful days of the year – International Day. Students and teachers were encouraged to come to school dressed in traditional clothing that represented their origins and heritage. The school seemed almost transformed by the appearance of so many colourful dresses and the wonderful smell of the various traditional foods that were available for breaks and lunch.

“One of my favourite things about RIS is the diversity of cultures,” said Technology teacher Mr. Rob, “It’s one of my favourite things about Thailand, but even more so at RIS. I love that my students can teach me so much about so many different parts of the world that they represent and are proud of.”

Fourth Grade teacher Mr. Jeff was also moved by International Day and said, “If we are truly an International School – then we should recognize and celebrate all the cultures represented by our school.” Mr. Jeff also noted, “It’s important to acknowledge that there are people from everywhere – it’s one of the things that makes our school so fortunate.”

With such a warm feeling of appreciation for so many different cultures, and the colourful festivities of the International Day celebrations – it’s too bad we can’t do this EVERY day!
