

Fall 2007 High School Student Survey

Juniors and seniors in Ms. Jenny's statistics class conducted formal surveys within the RIS high school population. A variety of topics were chosen, from tastes in music to views on cigarette smoking. Students were asked to find a random sample of 25% of their chosen population, conduct the survey, and analyze the results. Students found that conducting surveys formally is not a simple task and requires time and patience. Many thanks to the homeroom teachers who allowed the students to complete this project. The following are sample questions from their survey along with their responses.
